The speaker will be conducting a presentation on the recent and relatively complex changes to Factory Mutual's perimeter and corner requirements (FM I-28 and I-29s) for FM tested assemblies and would like to extend an invitation for you to join us.

Mr. Brandt will cover the changes in FM 1-29 as of January 2006 and their implications to the roofing industry, roofing specifications, and a look into the future regarding changes to other FM Loss Prevention Data Sheets. Factory Mutual's changes to FM I-90, and greater, for adhered roofing systems (single ply, BUR & modified bitumen) will increase the system cost of your installed specifications dramatically. It does not matter if your clients are FM Insured. If you reference Factory Mutual testing in your specifications, this meeting could prove to be extremely valuable for you.

Mr. Brandt has been employed by Firestone Building Products Company for 21 years, of which the last 18 years have been as the manager for the Firestone Codes Department.

He is currently a member of Underwriters Laboratories Inc. Standards Technical Panels for UL 580 (uplift), UL 790 (fire), UL 1256 (fire) and UL 1897 (uplift). Additionally, he is a member of several ASTM E5 (fire) committees as well as a member of SIGDERS, a consortium of manufacturers, the Canadian government, and interested parties with regard to dynamic wind uplift performance of roofing assemblies. Other memberships are maintained with SPRI, ERA, ICC, ARMA, NRCA and PIMA.
